

Ideas for Wedding Party Gifts

A day or two before your wedding, there is usually a wedding rehearsal and then a wedding rehearsal dinner. This is paid for traditionally by the groom's family, and it's when you will give your wedding attendants their gifts as a thank you for being in your wedding.

Bridesmaids

- As a rule, jewelry is a good idea for the ladies. If they have pierced ears, you can give them earrings. If their ears aren't pierced, you can give them necklaces.

It's always a good idea to give them something that they can wear on the day of the wedding to go with their dresses.

Groomsmenushers

- For the men, it's a little more difficult to choose an appropriate gift. If you can't find something that will be appropriate for all of them, you can choose comparable but different gifts.

Beer steins, shot glasses, and other similar items can be used, or something else that will reflect their individuality.

Remember, when you are choosing your gifts that these are your friends and family, and that you want them to know that you have appreciated everything that they have done.

The wedding rehearsal dinner is a time for the wedding party to come together and have a good time before the wedding.

Enjoy yourself and have a good time with your wedding party. You are celebrating the fact that you are going to be getting married soon, and that you will be starting a new life together with you spouse.