If you want to increase the level of quality in your bar stools then a designer bar stool is definitely an option for you. With a designer bar stool you get exactly the style you want and the materials that are used are top of the range. They stand out from other bar stools in their unique designs and superior quality.

For most designer bar stools the favourite look is the classic wooden bar stool the soft padded seats. The difference in quality of any designer bar stool in comparison to a standard bar stool is quite apparent as the quality of the material used are far better.

One of the best points to having a designer bar stool is the consideration given to detail; it is this attention to detail that makes a designer bar stool so appealing. For designer bar stools you definitely get what you pay for as the joints on the bar stool are double doweled this is to aid in keeping the bar stool sturdy, the legs on the designer stools have special high quality anti floor marking rubber stoppers to keep your floor mark free. Higher quality wood is used, which is more thoroughly stained or treated.

A designer bar stool certainly does not come cheap, having a bar stool made from the very best quality materials and unique designs can cost $1000 or more. If you make the time to check out various bar stool sites that do good deals on designer stools. Many bar stool sellers are always on the look out for new customers so you could probably find a good deal. This has created a lull where sellers are in fierce competition with each other so look hard and find a good deal.

Even if you have enough money for any bar stool out there, a designer stool may not be a good idea under certain conditions. Repairing these bar stools if damaged or replacing broken ones can be a hassle and quite expensive. So if you have kids or anticipate a lot of use, you may be better served with a less expensive set of stools. This is even truer in a busy bar or restaurant, where not only do you get a lot more use, but that use tends to be harsher. After all, people are always harder on things they don't own.
