If you are managing or running a busy lettings agency, you will already be familiar with the complexity involved in handling a large number of properties, clients and enquiries and keeping track of everything. If you're thinking of starting a property rental business, you will need to consider how you are going to run your office. Letting Agent offices are busy places and as an agent trying to grow your business, you need to be sure that your back-office processes are well-organised, allowing you to concentrate on finding the right properties for your clients.

There are dedicated software packages available on the market that can help to automate many of your processes. They help you to co-ordinate all the essential information you need in order to run your business successfully, including:

- Full client accounting facilities
- Automatic statement generation
- Letters portfolio
- Comprehensive diary
- Full internet/web integration
- Dynamic link to word processing packages
- Synchronisation with email packages

Choose the property rental software that benefits you

By choosing a software package that is easy to install and administer, you are already making your life easier. Rather than trying to co-ordinate landlord and tenant details on paper, or in several different computer files, dedicated software allows you to bring everything together into a single system. In addition, you can acquire better control over the money that comes through your agency. This makes the whole lettings process much more straightforward, meaning that it is easy for existing staff to get to grips with and easy to train new staff to use.

If you want to increase the amount of lettings business that comes through your office, then it pays to have an administrative system that's working for you rather than against you. Get some software on free trial and see how it can make a real difference to the way you run your business.
