Article Body:

The flood gates opened, gallons of coffee and loads of doughnut later - the progressive (note the underline in progressive) bunch called an Engineering team with this job order:

An intelligent assistant is needed to fit resumes for a job order

Resumes should have relevant data - preferably multi dimensional (data, photo, voice, video - the works)

The intelligent assistant should be flexible to the job order and support fitment decision making

The assistant should be nice, easy and effective, reach global & local - and yes, we'll pay the assistant for results

I don't mind if the assistant can bring me some money, said someone, high on caffeine

So many lines of code, tweaks more coffees and doughnuts later www.GoRecroot.com

Take two minutes of your time (it really takes much less than that), sign up and post your job order. If you are the multi dimensional web 2.0 types, throw in your voice file as well. Job seekers like the fizz. That's it for now. Give it a few days and wait for the curtains to rise, and exciting results soon follow.
