

Maternity wear has never been more stylish and there has never been a bigger selection of pregnancy clothing than ever before. Instead of wearing your husband's oversized shirts, why not invest in a few choice items that are suitable for the home and the office as well.

There are must-haves in every woman's wardrobe and this simple fact doesn't change during pregnancy. In fact, the must-have clothing is even more important when your wardrobe is limited. Focus on getting some choice pieces of maternity wear that will help you feel comfortable and beautiful all at once.

Fall calls for the perfect coat. Don't stuff yourself into your regular old seasonal coats when you can get a great deal on a stylish maternity trench coat that is suitable for cold, wind and rain. Stay stylish and comfortable while wearing this must have for the savvy mother-to-be.

The classic look of the trench coat will never go out of style. You can either save this maternity wear for your next pregnancy or you can opt to sell this timeless piece at a consignment store or on EBay. The trench coat is a great choice because it retains its value and it makes for a great investment.

Another must for fall is maternity wear that boasts comfort and style in a pant. Choosing a great chocolate tweed pair of pants with a lot of stretch is ideal for home and office. There are wonderful designs in this hot color ranging from flair legs to boot cut designs that are sure to please.

The warm tone of the deep chocolate maternity slacks is ideal for fall and it works well into the winter months as well. Look for super soft fabrics like well-constructed twill that has a little movement. These pants will be among the most valuable maternity wear that you add to your wardrobe.

Of course, you want to have something very feminine in your maternity wear collection. Nothing is better suited for the office than a classic pencil skirt. This look is comfortable and flattening and you can find the pencil skirt design in just about any material imaginable, including wool.

Some shoppers like to buy several maternity tops to keep their collections fresh. You can create a whole new look by adding colorful shirts and blouses to your maternity wardrobe. There are countless tops designed for comfort and attractiveness.

Women have more options than ever before. Instead of settling for second hand pregnancy clothing and your husband's shirts, try adding a few key pieces into your maternity wear collection. You will look and feel fantastic.

