If you are in the market for a fruit basket, the next step is where to purchase the gift? Luckily today, fruit baskets are available through a wide range of shops, websites, and individuals who can ship these edible presents all over the world. In addition to purchasing a pre-made fruit basket from a professional or company, consider assembling the basket yourself to save some cash and personalize a basket especially for the recipient.

There are fruit basket companies all over the world that specialize in creating every type of basket imaginable. If looking to find a fruit basket company that meets your needs and budget, consider utilizing the following resources:

- Phone Book: The phone book is an excellent place to find local fruit basket companies. More and more individuals are entering into the gift business, creating everything from fruit baskets to fantastic creations of gifts packaged in unique methods, such as balloons. Once you have contacted a fruit basket company, ask for a meeting or visit to their office to see their work. Most companies that specialize in creating fruit baskets will have a portfolio or catalogue to give you an idea of their work.
- Supermarket: It may seem strange, but most supermarkets will order you a delightful fruit basket. If you are interested in this service, speak to someone in your local grocery store to find the ordering options, prices, and estimated delivery time. Most grocery stores do not ship fruit baskets, so you will need to arrange a pick-up.

- Community: Ask around in your community to see if there is an individual who specializes in creating fruit baskets as a side project. Many individuals look to make extra cash by establishing an unofficial fruit basket business, so the price may be a great deal less than professional companies.

- Florists: Most florists have the capacity to order fruit baskets. Additionally, these baskets are usually able to be shipped all over the world, making this option perfect for the recipient located at a great distance. Your local florist will most likely have photographs of available gift baskets.

- World Wide Web: The internet is a fabulous place for finding everything under the sun, including gift baskets. Consider ordering a gift basket on the World Wide Web if you plan on shipping the gift to a recipient out of town. The sheer number of fruit basket companies setting up shop in cyberspace is amazing. A quick internet search will provide you with countless companies that await your order.

- Catalogs: Before the introduction of the internet, there were catalogs. Today, catalog companies are still going strong, although many of them have also branched out to cyberspace. Popular fruit basket seller, Harry and David, are perennial favorites, as are baskets purchased through companies that sell flower arrangements, including Hallmark and FTD florists.
