Nothing says I love you like a gift basket - a collection of favorite things assembled in a beautiful package. And for the tea lover, a tea gift basket can be the most wonderful of gifts; a compilation of treasures to encourage relaxation and reflection as you gather around cups of tea.

The tea gift basket can be assembled in a number of ways. First, there are many gift basket companies - both large and small - that will put together your tea gift basket and ship it directly to the person of your choice. In many cases you will be able to choose exactly what you would like included in the basket to make it a unique and personal gift.

Some companies have a standard tea gift basket you can purchase and send. Most include teacups, tea itself, and tea accoutrements such as sugar spoons, loose tea balls, strainers, and sometimes even baked goods.

In many cases, these companies will also allow you to pick the actual basket you would like to be used for your tea gift basket. You can have them include a personal note and your gift is complete.

The Internet is a fantastic resource for finding gift basket companies that will put together your tea gift basket. With the advent and subsequent growth of online commerce, more and more companies of this nature are offering their services through cyberspace. A few clicks of the mouse and you've assembled a beautiful gift for the tea lovers among us.

If you really want to personalize your tea gift basket, and you have your share of creativity, go ahead and make your own tea gift basket. With a little bit of ingenuity, you'll create a one-of-a-kind gift that will be most appreciated.

Assemble some favorite teas - some of your favorites and some favorites of the person to whom you are giving the tea gift basket. Include one or two pieces of some beautiful, reasonably priced china; perhaps you can find one or two antique teacups at a local antique store. Then round out the tea gift basket with personal touches; don't be afraid to get creative! Throw in some delicate linen napkins, an interesting container for loose tea, and some chocolates. Whatever you think will make the tea gift basket unique is exactly what you should include.

Have fun with your tea gift basket. And anyone who receives it will feel the joy
